

Finder – An activity based desk organiser

It's common to collect things related to on-going projects, on your desk. It's equally common for those collections to take over your workspace entirely. Finder is a desk organiser Inspired by the action of minimizing and maximizing tasks in an operating system. Instead of keeping everything on your desk at all times, project related trays can be taken out to support the activity at hand. Conventional storage let's us ignore what we choose to store. The transparency of Finder questions what we need in a place where space is precious.
