It's a calming lunch box set for busy modern people in Korea. I focused on a phenomenon of South Korea that many people eat out for lunch often. Even though it costs high for buying every meal and poor nutrition, they choose to eat out because of lack of time for preparing their own lunch. However, how might we change our daily life in terms of cyclic food chain way? I want to make a lunch box set which can give a willing to bring their own lunch and good feeling while they are eating a well-prepared food in the box. It is designed for Korean simple food with a chopstick. It is consist of a box, a chopstick case, and clothes for wrapping and tableware. Every material is natural and inspired by Korean and Japanese traditional lunch box.
